

Flossbach von Storch - Global Quality - I²

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Flossbach von Storch - Global Quality is a global equity fund with an active, focussed investment approach. The focus is on long-term holdings in companies (real value concept), not short-term speculation. We therefore focus on the quality of the company, which is determined by the strength and predictability of the expected earnings performance. We value a strong and sustainable competitive position, a healthy balance sheet, attractive target markets and management with integrity and competence. High-quality companies tend to have above-average returns on invested capital and strong resilience to adverse developments. All investment decisions are based on a sound assessment of quality and valuation. We understand risk as an economic dimension, i.e. the danger of a permanent loss of capital as opposed to short-term fluctuations. Other in-house valuation models include ESG issues, engagement, and voting. In addition, exclusion criteria defined within the framework of the Sub-Fund's investment policy are taken into account.

The Sub-Fund is actively managed. The portfolio is composed by the fund manager exclusively in accordance with the criteria defined in the investment policy, reviewed regularly and adjusted if necessary. The performance of the Sub-Fund is compared using the MSCI World Net Total Return Index as a benchmark. The fund manager is not linked to the index at any time when making investment decisions and the portfolio composition. Therefore, the performance of the Sub-Fund may differ significantly from the benchmark shown. The Sub-Fund is categorized as an Article 8 product under the Disclosure Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (SFDR). For detailed information on the objectives and investment policy, please refer to the most recent sales prospectus and the Key Information Document (PRIIP-KID).

EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, €50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

The war with Iran continued to cause volatility on the financial markets in April. At the start of the month, oil prices continued to rise, with WTI and Brent temporarily exceeding USD 110 per barrel (around 159 litres). Even after the ceasefire between the USA and Iran, the Strait of Hormuz remained effectively closed. Following a brief pause, oil prices therefore resumed their upward trend over the course of the month. The global economy has so far proven relatively resilient. However, the longer the conflict drags on, the greater the strain on global supply chains and the upward pressure on inflation rates are likely to become. Equity markets, however, appeared to have already shaken off such concerns and were able to recoup the losses of the previous month. The global MSCI World Index ended April with a gain of 7.6% (in euros and including dividends), thereby reaching a new all-time high. A key driver of performance was the start of the earnings season, which broadly painted a picture of relatively healthy profit growth – even though uncertainty regarding the consequences of the Iran war was mentioned in nearly every corporate outlook. Once again, enthusiasm surrounding artificial intelligence (AI) and the associated investment boom proved to be a strong driver of equity markets. This was also reflected in the value contributions within the portfolio: the largest positive value contributions came from two US technology groups Alphabet and Amazon – both “hyperscalers” operating large data centres, whose capacity is in high demand for AI applications – as well as French industrial goods manufacturer Legrand, which is currently achieving strong growth with products for data centres. The two hyperscalers, Alphabet and Amazon, reported revenue growth of 22% and 17% respectively for the first quarter, with their respective cloud divisions being key drivers. The largest negative contributions to value came from our holdings in Danish medical technology group Coloplast, IT consultancy Accenture, and US life sciences and diagnostics group Danaher. Coloplast was forced to lower its full-year outlook as reimbursement cuts in the USA for the use of biological products in outpatient wound care are weighing on its business there. However, this area represents only part of the wound care segment, which in total accounts for less than 15% of the group’s revenue. For the remainder of the business, management confirmed its expectation of organic growth of 7 to 8% for the financial year ending in September. Nevertheless, the news weighed on the company’s share price.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + These funds aim to exploit growth opportunities on global equity markets.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.

RISKS

- Equity markets and thus also unit values can experience severe fluctuations in response to market developments. The result can be a fall in the trading price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.

- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.
